

PIMS/BIRS Team Up!

Pathways to Inclusive Research

PIMS/BIRS Team Up! is a brand new program aimed at researchers whose research program may have been affected by various obstacles like family obligations, professional isolation, access to funding, and the COVID-19 pandemic.

We invite you to spend time working with your collaborators at world class research facilities such as the Banff International Research Station (BIRS) or the Kelowna BIRS site.

Successful groups of 2-6 collaborators will be supported for two weeks at one of these sites where they will be able to focus on their research.

Apply Now

(Applications Due April 16th)

Program Highlights

- Two weeks at a world class research facility, with your collaborators, focusing on your research
- Accommodation and Meals provided
- Travel reimbursement available
- Additional support available for researchers with caregiving responsibilities (e.g. travel, lodging and meals for children and a caregiver)

PIMS/BIRS Team Up! is primarily targeted at those whose research program may have been disproportionately affected by various obstacles such as family obligations, professional isolation, access to funding etc. We strongly encourage applications from women, gender-expansive individuals, Indigenous scholars, persons with visible/invisible disabilities, and other minoritized groups. The program is also open to early-career researchers and those with limited resources.

For more details, please see the PIMS/BIRS Team Up! webpage. If you have any questions about eligibility, program benefits or any other aspects of the program, please contact us at events@pims.math.ca or begin an application. Applications are due before April 15th.

<https://pims.math.ca/pims-birs-teamup>

